GENERAL GRANT'S DINNER TO PRESIDENT DIAZ

By PERCY FORBES (FIFTH INSTALLMENT.)

ST. FRANCIS, N.Y., Dec. 30th.-A very curious incident happened to me the other night, and I wished to have it in writing, but the time seemed so long that I have not been able to get it accurately typed in. I have been very busy lately, and have not had much time for writing, but I have finally found some time to spare to get this incident down on paper.

The incident occurred in the summer of 1865, when General Grant was in the midst of the civil war. He was then at his best, and these great men, cementing the friendly relations derived from that entertainment by the least hesitancy of any of them, set about the business of making a treaty with the Indians.

The treaty was signed, and Mr. T. F. V., the Indian agent, was sent to the treaty grounds tosuperintend the signing of the treaty by the Indians. Mr. T. F. V. was a man of great ability, and had been with the Indians for many years. He was a kind and gentle man, and was much beloved by the Indians. He was a real Indian, and was always ready to do anything for the good of the Indians.
