HEART BLOOD CLOT KILLED GEN. GRANT

BURIAL AT WEST POINT

Funeral to Await Arrival of Princess Castagnino, His Daughter, Who Is Hospitalized Here.

A clot of blood on the heart, it was decided yesterday by the attending medical staff, was the cause of death of Gen. Ulysses S.

Grant, which occurred Saturday at 10:35 a.m. at his home at 320 E. 67th St. Workshops about midnight Thursday, in New York City, were transferred to the roof of the home while Grant was said to be in a state of suffering from marked heart trouble. The cause of death was attributed to a rupture of an aortic aneurysm.

Grant had undergone a preliminary operation in St. Luke's Hospital on April 10. He was transferred from the hospital after the operation to his home.

Grant's death was unexpected by the medical staff. A search of Grant's medical records showed that he had not been examined by physicians since soon after his discharge from the hospital.

A statement from the Grant Memorial Fund in New York City said yesterday that the death of Grant had been announced to the fund by a physician in New York City.

The statement said that the fund was sorriest for the death of Grant and that it would make no comment on the cause of death.

Grant's funeral will be held in New York

City and will be announced by the Grant

Memorial Fund in New York City.
